REGULATORY FRAMEWORK

The Policy is aligned to the Policy is aligned to the UN Principles of Responsible Investment.

ARGONAUT'S APPROACH TO RESPONSIBLE INVESTMENT

Argonaut seeks to be a responsible investor and considers sustainable investment risks as part of its investment approach. As part of this approach, we consider sustainable investment factors across all our investments and seek to understand all opportunities and risks (including sustainable investment factors). We believe that good companies with good corporate behaviour represent better investments, as these companies tend to manage other aspects of their business competently and ethically.

Any Argonaut Principal investment is predicated on sound governance, quality management and strong business strategy. We undertake extensive engagement with companies and incorporate sustainable investment considerations as part of our investment management and decision-making process. If governance, management, or strategy is compromised, we take steps to protect the interest of our clients and Argonaut through including active engagement, other stewardship tools and, potentially, divestment.

PRE-INVESTMENT AND ONGOING DUE DILIGENCE

Before making an investment, we conduct sustainable investment analysis in addition to the fundamental/financial investment analysis. In doing so, we seek to identify and understand what sustainable investment risks a company faces and how it is managing these risks, and if its share price reflects these risks. This sustainable investment analysis may be the trigger for more analysis, a stronger investment case or for engagement with the company.

For companies covered by the Argonaut research team, part of this assessment may include consideration of the sustainable investment components of relevant Argonaut Research team reports, which have been developed independently of Argonaut's Corporate Finance, Stockbroking and Fund Management teams.

For unlisted assets, we may consider due diligence factors, including sustainable investment risk analysis and the company's ownership structure and rights.

For both unlisted and listed companies, Argonaut is focused on investing in quality companies. Our assessment of a company's suitability for investment includes consideration of:

- The quality of its Board, in terms of knowledge, commerciality and ethics;
- Financial position and structures;
- Corporate governance structure and practices
- Will it deliver sustainable growth
- Its potential environmental impact
- Its treatment of workers
- Its relationship with its customers and the wider community

- The timeliness and transparency of its communication to shareholders.

ESG ASSESSMENT METHODOLOGY

Argonaut employs several approaches when considering its investments:

1. Integration – explicitly and systematically including sustainable investment factors in our investment analysis and decisions;
2. Screening – applying filters to potential investments to determine their suitability for Argonaut's investment portfolio;
